

Qi Statistics Ltd is a small, dynamic specialist consultancy that has been trading very successfully for 22 years and is now wishing to expand. We are the market leaders in statistical training and consultancy in several areas, and we are looking to recruit a graduate statistician with at least 5 years commercial experience.

The role is wide ranging including running training in statistical methods to non-statisticians, project consultancy and data analysis. It would suit someone with good communication skills and an aptitude for training, and who is prepared to work independently and to take on new challenges. A background in the application of statistics to market and consumer research is desirable but not essential.

We are offering a competitive salary and an opportunity to work in an environment where variety flourishes, initiative is rewarded and job satisfaction is paramount. Your colleagues are a small team of highly professional and motivated individuals and leaders in their field.

The job is UK based, our offices are near Reading Berkshire, but the job offers the opportunity to work from home.

For further details send your cv with salary expectations to me, David Johnston, at david@qistatistics.co.uk. No agencies please.
